

The Crown Estate is unique. Our portfolio of buildings, shoreline, seabed, forestry, agricultural and common land generates valuable revenue for the Treasury, and therefore the taxpayer, every year.

Our past embodies fascinating glimpses of the nation's history. Our present structure and operations ensure the highest standards of best management practice. We also look to the future, keenly aware of our responsibility for the long-term value of our legacy and for the well-being of those who make their living from it.

The Crown Estate is custodian of a richly diverse national heritage, a resource of considerable significance now and to future generations.
